PROGRAM

10:45 am Cybersecurity
Presented by Adam Bruere and Taylor Mitcham
Aon
(CPE Information Technology - 1 credit)

With the constantly changing cyber threat landscape Aon will detail the risk that transportation and logistics companies face as well as discuss some of the mitigation tactics that companies can implement from a proactive and reactive perspective. We will also discuss the scope of a cyber liability insurance coverage and how it can be utilized to address some of the current exposure.

Speakers:

Adam Bruere is a broker on the cyber solutions team and has been with Aon since 2014. He has prior experience at Aon working in account management. Bruere manages errors and omission exposures for clients across the country. Some areas of expertise include the following: network security & privacy liability (cyber), technology errors and omissions, miscellaneous professional liability, media liability. Bruere received his bachelor of arts in business and economics from Wheaton College.

Taylor Mitcham, ARM, AAI, serves as the primary risk advisor for several Aon transportation clients nationwide. He works with Aon colleagues to identify and mitigate client risk, and to ensure delivery of all appropriate resources and solutions. The Aon transportation teams Mitcham leads design innovative risk management solutions for clients to achieve their lowest total cost of risk. Mitcham has over 15 years of experience in providing insurance and risk management services.

Modernization of the International Registration Plan (IRP) Processes

Presented by Christy Earnhart

*Department of Finance & Administration
(CPE Management Services - 1 credit)*

The presentation will address where the Department of Finance & Administration started with the online services and where the program is now. The discussion will also include the current process of making changes, the training that has been conducted and the department's plan for future changes.

Speaker:

Christy Earnhart started her career with the Department of Finance & Administration in the summer of 1980, working part-time in IRP each summer through 1985. After graduating from the University of Central Arkansas in May of 1985 with a degree in business administration, she became an IRP auditor. She was promoted to the IRP manager in October of 1991 and held that position until June of 2009 when she became an assistant administrator. Her role requires more involvement with motor vehicle matters in addition to overseeing the IRP unit.
